The Championship

It was the last game of the season and the players were nervous. They looked expectantly at their coach for direction. He told them clearly what he expected from them. Determined to win, each player walked rapidly to their spot on the court. The referee blew the whistle and the players skillfully took control of the ball. Soon the team was dominating the game. Unfortunately, Malcolm tripped and fell, letting the other team get the ball. Their opponents had waited patiently for this moment and took advantage. Before long, they scored two points.
