Answers:

foundation structure territory cavern boulder horizon meadow gravel ashore pebble trespassing particle

We were following a gravel pathway, and I was kicking a small pebble along as we went. The long grasses of the meadow stretched as far as I could see to the horizon, where the sun was setting. Particles of dust floated slowly along in the air. There were no other people anywhere.

Some wolves howled. It was the third time I had heard them howl. They were getting closer everytime. I was worried that we were trespassing on their territory.

To my left I could hear the waves as they crashed ashore and splashed against a big boulder. As the path took us closer to the beach, I could see a structure someone had made out of stones. It looked like a cavern, and the foundation of it looked strong. It looked wolf-proof. The wolves howled again, and I went inside. It was cold, dark and safe.
